For Immediate Release

EAPD ASSOCIATE, M. MACHUA MILLETT, SELECTED TO PARTICIPATE IN 2010 BOSTON'S FUTURE LEADER PROGRAM

Boston, MA – February 9, 2010 – Edwards Angell Palmer & Dodge LLP is pleased to announce that M. Machua Millett has been selected to participate in the 2010 Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce's Boston's Future Leaders program.

“Mach is one of our brightest stars,” explains Jed Hendrick, Partner-in-Charge of the Firm’s Boston office. “He is driven and entrepreneurial in his approach to his practice. He serves as a mentor to the more junior associates, and is trusted by attorneys senior to him for his good judgment.”

Millett is an associate in the Insurance and Reinsurance Department of EAPD, where he advises liability insurers, reinsurers and (re)insurance intermediaries concerning complex claims and coverage and foreign and domestic regulatory matters. He focuses his practice on advising clients concerning insurance and reinsurance issues throughout Latin America, including regulatory, compliance, transactional and claims matters.

The Boston's Future Leaders 2010 class is comprised of approximately 75 individuals all noted for their high potential as leaders in the Boston community. The Greater Boston Chamber is committed to driving economic growth, creating new opportunities for members and building a more inclusive community. Now in its seventh year, Boston's Future Leaders is a key initiative of the Chamber. The mission of the program is to identify the leaders of tomorrow and engage them in the business and civic life of the Boston community by providing a platform for professional development and significant opportunities for growth and exposure. As a member of this prestigious class, Millett will represent EAPD in numerous opportunities including leadership development programs at Harvard Business School and Suffolk University Sawyer Business School.

Millett received his law degree from Harvard Law School, and his undergraduate degree from Tufts University. He is licensed to practice in Massachusetts, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico Federal Court.
