In 2008, when a mother of two in a local New Jersey community was stricken with lung cancer and taken from her family too soon, Kerry Glass was emotionally affected not only by the devastation that this family must have felt, but even more so by the notion that there were two young children who would never “know their mother.” As a mother of two young children, Kerry felt if this mother had the opportunity to create a movie celebrating her life, her hopes and dreams for her kids, perhaps her children would find some solace and more of a sense of who their mother was. It was that hope that drove her to create a not for profit organization called Memories Live (www.memorieslive.org).

The mission of Memories Live is to help people with life-limiting illnesses preserve their images, stories and wisdom by creating personalized movies to pass on to their loved ones. These movies (created free of charge) consisting of compilations of interviews, photos, and music, provide an important connection for you and your family while also offering the opportunity to reflect on your life. It can be a powerful and rewarding experience.

Memories Live has been highlighted in many news features including CBS News, The Star Ledger, Newsday and parentgiving.com. Memories Live has worked with clients throughout the entire NYC metro region and welcomes the opportunity to develop new relationships with any healthcare providers (hospitals, cancer centers, hospices, support groups, etc) in the region that may be interested in learning more about the service.

I think this is a wonderful thing to give your grandchildren. With Memories Live and they get to see their grandparents alive. This is a very important thing to pass on.

Leslie, a client with liver cancer

This has been a wonderful experience. I'm glad I have done it and I have enjoyed every minute of it. Many thanks for this very uplifting experience.

Carol, NY

About the movie. Honestly my words cannot express the way it makes me feel to see it. I love everything about it. The interview process was great as well, being that you are very sincere and have a sweet personality. I felt comfortable with the interview although I met you that day. So to me this was a great experience and I would encourage anyone who wants to leave memories behind for loved ones to do this.
